Introducing hello lady. A professional woman and the owner of a mansion in the town of Guan Yu. The mansion is a place to live but it's not a safe place. Due to her character, she is often hated by citizens but it's good for her business. You are a bounty hunter who is searching for a murderer and are assigned to find out the whereabouts of the murderer's wife. As you go around the city, you will find many clues from different people. Depending on your decisions, you will have different relationships with people in the town. What happened in this town? Gameplay FAN AGE:1. Field of the Invention The invention relates to a charge transfer cell, and more specifically to a method of forming a thin film on a transfer gate electrode, a charge transfer cell including the thin film, and a method of fabricating the thin film. 2. Description of the Prior Art A charge transfer cell is an array of MOS devices, usually of p-channel (n-type) and n-channel (p-channel) transistors. The electrical charge of the cell is transferred between two sets of devices. The charges stored in the cell can be transferred to a floating diffusion node and/or a storage node in a solid-state image device. The performance of a charge transfer cell depends on the ability of the cell to accurately transfer a charge from one point to another. One problem with a charge transfer cell is that the transfer gate conductor on the transfer gate dielectric, which usually comprises silicon dioxide, is easily damaged during chemical mechanical polishing. Such chemical mechanical polishing usually follows back-etching of the cell to form a recess, in which a source electrode, gate electrode, and transfer gate dielectric are present. Typically, silicon dioxide is used as the transfer gate dielectric. In order to achieve good electrical isolation, the charge transfer cell is usually completed with a double polysilicon structure, which usually includes a high-impedance polysilicon gate electrode (serving as an electrostatic shield to prevent charge injection) and a low-impedance polysilicon gate electrode (serving as a transfer gate electrode). In order to provide maximum transfer efficiency, a transfer gate dielectric formed between the transfer gate electrode and the floating diffusion node is thin, usually about 50 to 100 angstroms. As the semiconductor industry evolves, a need arises for higher performance semiconductor devices, including faster, smaller, and higher
